1. Place the first passage without numbers in front of the student. Point to any names in the document and tell the student how to say the name. Then say:
"This is a story about Vicky. I want you to read this story to me. You'll have 1 minute to read as much as you can. When I say "begin," start reading aloud at the top of the page. Do your best reading. If you have trouble with a word, I'll tell it to you. Do you have any questions? Begin."
2. Start the timer.
3. While the student is reading, mark errors with a slash (/).
4. At 1 minute, mark the last word read with a bracket (]).
5. When the student gets to a logical stopping place, say "Stop."

Life was good for Vicky . She was on the honor roll and had been named the most	17 valuable player on the school tennis team. She was friends with just about everyone at	32 her middle school. Everyone thought she was super smart, nice, and athletic. In fact,	46
there really wasn't anything not to admire about Vicky. But one day when she was visiting	62 her dentist for her usual check-up, she received some bad news. He saw that her teeth	78 were becoming slightly crooked and instructed Vicky and her parents to consult an	91 orthodontist right away about getting braces. Vicky was shocked. She had never even had	105
a cavity before, how could this be happening to her?	115
Vicky was really worried. She knew that middle schoolers were infamous for	127 teasing one another, but she had never been the source of any jokes before. Nobody had	143 ever had a reason to pick on her, but the braces might change all that. She'd heard other	161 kids with braces called "metal mouth" and "brace face," and she certainly didn't want to	176 be given such hideous nicknames! The orthodontist attached Vicky's braces on a Friday	189 afternoon. Vicky spent most of the weekend in tears. Maybe she was still smart and nice	205 and athletic, but now she was funny looking too. It didn't help that her little brother told	222 her that her mouth looked like train tracks! Vicky dreaded what others would say to her	238
on Monday.	240
Surprisingly, no one made a single negative comment at school the next week. In	254 fact, a few classmates told Vicky they liked her new look. Vicky started feeling a lot	270 better, especially when she thought about how straight her teeth would be when the	284 braces were removed. In fact, when she reflected on how much she had dreaded getting	299
her new braces, she felt a little embarrassed.	307
